Subject: Megan's Law Legislation Update

EC and Board:

The fix to the Muniz decision (and by implication the Butler decision) passed the House just a few minutes ago unanimously. It will go to the Senate when the Senate returns in January.

As we discussed at the last EC/Board meeting, the bill would apply the prior Megan's Law III (the version enacted in 2004 and that was amended through 2011 before Adam Walsh went into law) retroactively to those convicted of sex crimes before 2012 when Adam Walsh took effect. Because Megan's Law was less onerous, we believe a good argument can be made that it is civil and not punitive and therefore can be applied retroactively. It also reduces the number of times offenders have to do in-person registrations after 3 years of complying with the registration requirements and permits sex offenders to petition to come off the registry after they have been on for 25 years. This would apply to sexually violent predators (thus responding to the Butler decision) and to other sex offenders.

Link to the bill is below. No doubt there are things that the small group that I worked with in the Legislature and PSP missed, so we will be reviewing the text carefully over the coming weeks.

Let me know please if you have any questions/concerns, etc.

Subject: 2018 Handbook Sheets Past Due Importance: High

Good morning,

I have yet to receive your information sheet for the 2018 handbook. Attached is a .pdf with the proofs for each county. You or one of your staff will need to find your page (the counties are listed in alphabetical order) and print it out. Take some time to go over the proof of your section of the handbook. If there are no changes, please check the box "No Changes Necessary." If there are changes, please fill them out in the spaces provided. Once you are finished you can fax, mail, or email me your changes or approvals. I need to have all of your responses as soon as possible so I can make any necessary changes and start the proof reading process. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to call me.

Sincerely,

Mr. Westley,

Yes, Mr. Zappala is still interested in helping out the team!! Could you please draft a brief letter (an email is fine also) kind of explaining how the program helps the kids and keeps them away from drugs/crime, etc. We would also need a dollar amount for the grant. Once received, I will start the paperwork process.

Good afternoon,

I am reaching out to you to see if you were still interested in getting our Boys basketball team some team shoes? You passed your card to my Assistant coach at the Plum tournament and this is a follow-up from the call I put in to your office last week. We surely could use this generous offer to help us look and feel like a team. Either way, If you could get back to me I would appreciate it. My number is 412-583-0376, Head Coach of Imani Boys Varsity Basketball Team and also our Boys Middle school program.

Yes, Mr. Zappala is still interested in helping out the team!! Could you please draft a brief letter (an email is fine also) kind of explaining how the program helps the kids and keeps them away from drugs/crime, etc. We would also need a dollar amount for the grant. Once received, I will start the paperwork process.

Good afternoon,

I am reaching out to you to see if you were still interested in getting our Boys basketball team some team shoes? You passed your card to my Assistant coach at the Plum tournament and this is a follow-up from the call I put in to your office last week. We surely could use this generous offer to help us look and feel like a team. Either way, If you could get back to me I would appreciate it. My number is 412-583-0376, Head Coach of Imani Boys Varsity Basketball Team and also our Boys Middle school program.

Pitfalls and Challenges in Complying with ISO/IEC 17025-2005

Presented by: Dr. Daniel Davidson

Date: Tue, Dec 19, 2017 | Time: 1:00 pm ET | 12:00 pm CT | Length: 60 min

Identify Common Mistakes and Shortcomings When Complying with ISO/IEC 17025-2005

Compliance with ISO/IEC 17025-2005 provides a globally accepted basis for laboratory accreditation. You must understand whether the current operations of your laboratory meet the requirements of ISO/IEC 17025-2005 and identify those areas where you are non-compliant. In doing so, you may save money by reducing the potential cost of additional audits by third-party accreditation bodies, and retesting non-compliant services for customers.

Join this session with expert speaker Dr. Daniel Davidson who will show you how to improve your compliance with ISO/IEC 17025-2005. This session will facilitate laboratories and guide them in developing systems to achieve compliance in those areas where they do not meet the requirements of ISO/IEC 17025-2005. You will learn common mistakes laboratories make and how to correct them in preparation for overall compliance.

By attending this session, you will learn how to evaluate your testing lab for common areas of non-compliance with ISO/IEC 17025-2005. This will ultimately save you money by reducing the potential cost of additional audits and retesting non-compliant services for customers. You will also learn how to create or improve your lab's quality manual to become compliant with this standard, and improve record-keeping and reporting to advance major areas of customer service.

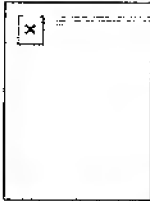

Session Highlights

- History and outline of ISO/IEC 17025 standard
- The intent of this standard
- Common non-conforming sections
 - Document control
 - Subcontracting tests and calibrations
 - Corrective action
 - Internal audits and management review
 - Personnel
 - Equipment, calibration and traceability
 - Reporting
- Tips on writing a quality manual
- Summary and conclusions

This Week on Family-Studies

Laurie DeRose weighed in on the current debate over whether the increase in social media use is driving a dramatic rise in self-harm among adolescent girls, and Alysse ElHage shared five facts about today's single fathers. Law professors June Carbone and Naomi Cahn responded to a recent Politico article on Red and Blue families by W. Bradford Wilcox and Vijay Menon. Finally, Ashley McGuire explored whether more family dinners might be the key to reducing picky eating problems in children.

Cell Phones & Family Processes

by Laurie DeRose

Is social media use the main culprit behind recent dramatic increases in self-harm among adolescent girls?

The family and social relationships that contextualize screen use may matter more than the screens themselves.

Updating Red v. Blue Families

by June Carbone & Naomi Cahn

The test of Red and Blue systems should not be how well they work for those who are already successful, or how each group votes. The true test should be the effectiveness of state policies on the well-being of all children.

Today's Single Fathers

by Alysse ElHage

More single-parent homes are headed by single dads today than 10 years ago, according to a recent report from the U.S. Census Bureau. So who are these men and how do their families differ from single-mother families?

Picky Eating and Family Dinners

by Ashley McGuire

About 1 in 5 kids today fall into the category of a picky eater. Perhaps finding more ways to increase family or community meals could help solve picky eating habits.

IFS Around the Web

A Romper article on the benefits of "daddy-daughter dates" highlighted a popular Family Studies article on fathers and daughters by Linda Nielsen. And a recent CNBC report, "Women are better educated than their husbands, but men still earn more," cited research by IFS research director, Wendy Wang.

What Kids Want at Christmas

by Rhonda Kruse Nordin

We pore over our children's Christmas lists, yet often forget what they want most: a happy, lasting marriage for their mom and dad, especially if they have reason to suspect it's missing.

TrueAllele® Technology

Cybergenetics wins Business Times Forensic Innovation Award

Cybergenetics won the Pittsburgh Business Times Innovation Award for Forensic Science. Drs. Mark Perlin and Ria David accepted the award for the company.

Cybergenetics posted Dr. Perlin's acceptance speech. The doctor thanked the Business Times and described DNA mixtures. He told how TrueAllele has been used across the country, and for violent crimes in Allegheny County, "rescuing untapped DNA evidence for convictions and acquittals."

Perlin concluded, "Cops and kids are killed in our county by gun toting criminals. A powerful DNA database could help prevent these murders. Through DNA, TrueAllele can connect guns used in crime. Computers can catch shooters before they kill again. We hope our innovation will help cut the killing in our county."

CBS 48 Hours this Saturday Guilty Until Proven Innocent

Darryl Pinkins spent 24 years in prison, wrongfully convicted of a rape he did not commit. Codefendant Roosevelt Glenn served 17 wrongful years. The DNA evidence that would one day prove their innocence was improperly interpreted.

Fifteen years later, TrueAllele found the truth in that DNA, and exonerated Pinkins and Glenn. Today these men are free, their reputations clear.

Saturday, December 9 at 10 pm (ET/PT), CBS broadcasts an updated encore of "Guilty Until Proven Innocent."

Maureen Maher and 48 Hours investigate the evidence against Pinkins and Glenn, and how TrueAllele changed their fates forever. The show asks how two men can be convicted of a crime when excluded by DNA.
